

Oxford Cambridge and RSA

Thursday 18 November 2021 – Morning

GCSE (9–1) History A (Explaining the Modern World)

J410/14 International Relations: the changing international order
1918–c.1975

Time allowed: 1 hour 15 minutes

You must have:

- the OCR 12-page Answer Booklet

INSTRUCTIONS

- Use black ink.
- Write your answer to each question in the Answer Booklet. The question numbers must be clearly shown.
- Fill in the boxes on the front of the Answer Booklet.
- Answer all the questions.

INFORMATION

- The total mark for this paper is 60.
- The marks for each question are shown in brackets [].
- Spelling, punctuation and grammar (SPaG) and the use of specialist terminology will be assessed in questions marked with a pencil (✎).
- This document has 4 pages.

ADVICE

- Read each question carefully before you start your answer.

International Relations: the changing international order 1918–c.1975

Answer all the questions.

1 Outline how the USA and USSR clashed in the 1960s. [5]

2 Explain why the League of Nations was successful in the 1920s. [10]

3 Study Interpretation A.

Do you think this interpretation is a fair comment on Britain's policy of appeasing Germany?
Use your knowledge and other interpretations of British policy towards Germany between 1937 and 1939 to support your answer. [25]

() Spelling, punctuation and grammar and the use of specialist terminology [5]

4 Study Interpretation B.

Explain why not all historians and commentators have agreed with this interpretation.
Use other interpretations and your knowledge to support your answer. [10]

() Spelling, punctuation and grammar and the use of specialist terminology [5]

Interpretation A

It is tempting to follow the popular view that the events that led to Munich were a huge diplomatic failure. Yet Munich was at least in one respect a triumph – for Chamberlain. What was agreed at Munich was much closer to what Chamberlain had proposed than what Hitler had demanded. As a result of Chamberlain's diplomacy, Hitler had been forced to abandon his plans to 'smash Czechoslovakia by military action' which he had been planning since the end of May. Chamberlain really had prevented a war.

From 'The War of the World' by British historian Niall Ferguson, published in 2006.

Interpretation B

The end of the Potsdam Conference was bleak and the agreements made there soon fell apart. Stalin's desire to control Poland and the other states of Eastern Europe was now clear. The Soviets ignored any of our objections to this policy. Western admiration for the heroic role played by the USSR in defeating Germany became dimmed by fear of Soviet ruthlessness and power. There was a real fear that Communist supporters in the West would try to overthrow free democratic government.

From 'Between War and Peace: The Potsdam Conference', written by the US historian and economist Herbert Feis and published in the USA in 1960.

END OF QUESTION PAPER

Copyright Information

OCR is committed to seeking permission to reproduce all third-party content that it uses in its assessment materials. OCR has attempted to identify and contact all copyright holders whose work is used in this paper. To avoid the issue of disclosure of answer-related information to candidates, all copyright acknowledgements are reproduced in the OCR Copyright Acknowledgements Booklet. This is produced for each series of examinations and is freely available to download from our public website (www.ocr.org.uk) after the live examination series.

If OCR has unwittingly failed to correctly acknowledge or clear any third-party content in this assessment material, OCR will be happy to correct its mistake at the earliest possible opportunity.

For queries or further information please contact The OCR Copyright Team, The Triangle Building, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 8EA.

OCR is part of the Cambridge Assessment Group; Cambridge Assessment is the brand name of University of Cambridge Local Examinations Syndicate (UCLES), which is itself a department of the University of Cambridge.